.Designed by Joe Marchese, this is one of the new Jordan XIV retro's that we're excited for. It follows the 6 theme but adds some colourways like this red with black and silver. It looks awesome but there are a few things to note though. The calfskin is leather but it's pinked up with suede (it's really hard to tell) so it looks different, but it's tough and stylish. The leather also has a little bit of rubber in it which is great. In terms of the styling on this shoe it's crisp and clean. It's got the futuristic style that made the VI its predecessor and it does that justice. The logo on the side is great and sits in the middle of the shoe with the tongue sitting on the side of it. The heel is crisp and clean, and the inner sole has that smooth nubuck material which is pretty great.

Systematics of the Gulf of Mexico cnidarian family Rissoidae (Cnidaria, Anthozoa) based on phylogenomic analyses. The family Rissoidae includes approximately 200 living species with a worldwide distribution, many of which have been the subject of studies on evolution and phylogeny. Unfortunately, this family has been neglected in recent phylogenomic studies. We present a first phylogenomic study for the Rissoidae, using the concatenation and supermatrix methods. The topology of the Bayesian inference tree with MrBayes was almost identical to those from other Bayesian phylogenetic analyses, but it differed from others in the analysis using concatenation. These are the first phylogenomic results for a genus of Rissoidae, Pseudorhaphitoma, indicating that the Rissoidae is paraphyletic and polyphyletic. Most, but not all, species of Pseudorhaphitoma are derived from the genera Rissoa and Rhipidomella. Therefore, the members of Pseudorhaphitoma are not well separated from members of Rissoa and Rhipidome f678ea9f9e
